Dialogue in “live” forums such as a podcast is for informational purposes only. It is not intended to be interpreted as investment advice, a recommendation or solicitation to purchase securities, or a recommendation of a particular course of action. Information is based on the presenter’s opinions at the time of the recording of this material and are subject to change based on market activity. Securitize, Inc., or any of its affiliates, (collectively “Securitize”), make any warranty as to the accuracy or reliability of the information discussed during the podcast.

No communication by Securitize, through its website or any other medium, should not be construed as or intended to be a recommendation to purchase, sell or hold any security or otherwise to be investment, tax, financial, accounting, legal, regulatory or compliance advice. Nothing contained in podcasts or recorded interviews is intended as an offer to extend credit, an offer to purchase or sell securities or a solicitation of any securities transaction.

Alternative investments involve specific risks that may be greater than those associated with traditional investments; are not suitable for all clients; and intended for experienced and sophisticated investors who meet specific suitability requirements and are willing to bear the high economic risks of the investment. Investments of this type may engage in speculative investment practices; carry additional risk of loss, including possibility of partial or total loss of invested capital, due to the nature and volatility of the underlying investments; and are generally considered to be illiquid due to restrictive repurchase procedures. These investments may also involve different regulatory and reporting requirements, complex tax structures, and delays in distributing important tax information.

References to Funds on the Platform:

Investing in Funds listed on the Securitize platform is for highly sophisticated investors and involves risks, including lack of operating history, leverage, liquidity of portfolio and segregated portfolio fund risk, diversification and concentration risk, and long-term investment risk, as well as the risk that you may receive little or no return on your investment or that you may lose part or all of your investment. The ability of a particular Fund to achieve its investment objective depends, in part, on the ability of the Adviser to allocate the assets of the Fund effectively. There can be no assurance that the actual allocations will be effective in achieving the Fund's investment objective or delivering positive returns. The investment return and principal value of an investment will fluctuate so that an investor's shares, when ultimately sold, may be worth more or less than the original cost. Current performance may be lower or higher than the performance quoted.

Funds are limited partnerships and have no history of public trading. No secondary market exists for the Fund's shares though the Advisor will seek to develop one. There can be no guarantee that the Advisor will be successful in developing a secondary market. Due to these restrictions, an investor should consider an investment in the Fund to be of limited liquidity. The Fund is suitable only for investors who can bear the risks associated with the limited liquidity of the Fund and should be viewed as a long-term investment.

Investing in private funds is speculative and involves a high degree of risk, including the risk of a substantial loss of investment. There is no guarantee that any investment strategies will work under all market conditions, and there is no guarantee that a diversified portfolio will enhance overall returns or outperform a non-diversified portfolio.

All communication in "live" forums, such as a podcast should not be considered as investment advice or a recommendation of any particular security, strategy or investment product or be relied upon for any other purpose.
